

English allows us to learn more about the world.

The only requirement is curiosity, which is something I cannot teach you. If learning about “Defeat of the Schools” did not motivate you to be better than your peers at other schools, then perhaps this will... English will teach you as much about yourself and the world as much as you apply yourself.

If you are tired of social interactions, give life a demo by reading!

But how do you read? That is the question...