

Early College Academy Overview

The Early College Academy (ECA) Program is a dual enrollment program, which means students are enrolled in both high school classes and college courses. Students will attend classes on the Forest Park Campus of St. Louis Community College and are still allowed to participate in their high schools' extra-curricular activities. The program begins with a junior cohort group and continues through to the end of students' senior year.

The ultimate goal of ECA is for SLPS students to graduate with a high school diploma as well as an Associate's Degree - General Transfer from St. Louis Community College-STLCC. While in college students will gain access to all the resources provided through STLCC. Tuition, fees, and books are covered but transportation expense is the responsibility of the students.

In order to be successful in the program, all students must maintain a B or better GPA in all classes and will receive on-going support from the ECA counselor. The counselor will help students effectively transition from high school to college expectations preparing them to transfer and graduate with a Bachelors of Arts degree or industry recognizable credential from a technical college in their majors of interest.
