Back To School Festival Set For Saturday, August 4th

The annual St. Louis Public Schools “Back To School Fair” just keeps getting bigger and better. Once again, SLPS is teaming up with the St. Louis Empowerment Foundation to present the St. Louis Public Schools Back to School and Community Empowerment Festival on Saturday, August 4th from 9am – 1pm at Chaifetz Arena on the campus of St. Louis University.

The St. Louis Public Schools Back to School and Community Empowerment Festival is free for all St. Louis residents. More than 200 vendors will be on hand, providing everything from free haircuts for children to family resources to services for senior citizens. As always, free backpacks and school supplies will be given to students while supplies last.

Inside the Chaifetz Arena, St. Louis Public Schools officials will be on hand to assist with transportation, enrollment and other school-related questions and concerns. Vendors and exhibitors will offer important school-related information for parents and students.

This year's event will also include numerous activities and points of interest on the grounds outside the Chaifetz Arena. Scheduled activities include go-kart racing, pony rides and a bounce house.

For more information on the Back to School Festival, call 314-345-2520 or visit www.slps.org.

 Remember, classes for the St. Louis Public Schools begin Monday, August 13, 2012.

Moving Forward –
Making Progress

As we look forward to the first day of school on Monday, August 13, there is much to be excited about in the Saint Louis Public School District. Thanks to the hard work of our students and teachers, the District is making progress and on the right track.

Last year, SLPS earned six accreditation points for the first time ever during the Missouri School Improvement Program IV Cycle. To top that off, 16 District schools earned Adequate Yearly Progress as recognized by the No Child Left Behind Act. We look forward to even greater academic improvement this year.

Moving forward, this year all District 3rd grade students will participate in the iPad initiative. Our 3rd grade teachers are being provided with additional professional development to help our students use iPads in the classroom as additional learning aids. The District is also piloting the iPad initiative with selected 4th grade students this year.

We added 37 additional early childhood classrooms during the past school year to open up preschool opportunities for more than 700 additional children in St. Louis City. Our commitment to providing the youngest children in our community with access to high-quality preschool classrooms taught by certified teachers continues this year. We are proud to offer our full-day preschool classrooms on a tuition-free basis for St. Louis City residents.

The St. Louis Public School District is joining other districts nation-wide in embracing the Common Core Standards for mathematics and language arts. These standards will improve teaching and learning to ensure that all children will graduate high school with the skills they need to be successful. Parent guides to these standards are being developed for each grade level and will be available on the District website at www.slps.org under the Parents & Students tab.

During the summer months the District has also continued moving forward with our Proposition S facility improvements and upgrades. Thanks to the generosity of St. Louis City voters, the District is in the process of making more than $150 Million in improvements to our school buildings. Our students will enjoy new state-of-the-art science labs and cafeterias, upgraded technology and added security features, as well as improved athletic facilities.

The summer was an exciting time for more than 5,400 students who attended the St. Louis Public Schools summer school program. During the month of June, children in preschool – 12th grade participated in project based learning, enrichment programs, credit recovery programs and transition programs, all offered to help our students become better prepared for the upcoming school year. As the final bell rang for summer school, more than 1,600 students were recognized for achieving perfect attendance for the entire summer school schedule.

District Names the 2012 SLPS Teacher of the Year

Ms. Julie Beede, a Music Specialist at Dewey International Studies Elementary School, was named the St. Louis Public School District’s 2012 Teacher of the Year. SLPS Superintendent Dr. Kelvin R. Adams made the announcement during the school’s morning assembly, which was attended by all Dewey students and staff members.

“It was a wonderful surprise to receive this award in front of my Dewey family! Teachers work very hard on behalf of their students and their schools. I am grateful for the recognition. As SLPS Teacher of the Year, I am pleased that music, and those who teach it, are valued by the St. Louis Public Schools,” said Beede.

An educator with the District since 2000, Ms. Beede believes that music and the arts embody the purest form of human expression and enhances understanding and achievement in the other academic areas. After joining Dewey International Studies Elementary School in 2010, she promptly began to restore the school’s stage so that her students could have a venue to display their developing music skills as well as having the opportunity to experience live performances by accomplished musicians. In addition, Ms. Beede renovated the school’s Keyboard Lab, and taught her students to play recorders, keyboards and Orff instruments, showcasing her students’ knowledge and talents at school concerts and mini-musicals.

Dr. Zitta, the principal at Dewey who nominated Beede for the 2011 SLPS Elementary Music Teacher of the Year award, which in turn made her an eligible candidate for the District’s Teacher of the Year award, stated, “She has created an attractive and print-rich learning environment. Communication Arts are supported in her music class with journal and homework assignments. MAP – formatted question strips are visible along with student work and the beginnings of a word wall, and she used technology on a supportive and transformative level in her classes on a daily basis.”

As the St. Louis Public School District’s 2012 Teacher of the Year, Ms. Beede is now eligible to compete for the Missouri Teacher of the Year honor, to be chosen at a later date.

“Ms. Beede believes that music and the arts embody the purest form of human expression and enhances understanding and achievement in the other academic areas.”

For the first time in years, St. Louis Public Schools is opening three new schools this fall. The schools are being opened to help accommodate the students formerly attending Imagine Charter schools. The new schools are the College Preparatory High School at Madison, the Academy of Environmental Science and Mathematics Elementary School and the Academy of Environment Science and Mathematics Middle School. Bell times, addresses and other school information for these schools is included in our School Listings directory found on page 1 of this issue of School & Home.

Finally, I’d like to welcome all new students and their families to Saint Louis Public Schools. If you are enrolling in our schools for the first time, or coming back after attending other schools, please know that we are happy to have you as part of the SLPS family. We strive every day in SLPS to make our schools a safe and welcoming environment for all students and staff.

who are in transition (homeless children) or are wards of the state, and children with disabilities attending private schools who are under the jurisdiction of the agency, regardless of the severity of the disability. This includes children attending private schools, including non-residents if attending private schools within the agency’s jurisdiction, highly mobile children, such as migrant and homeless children, and children who are suspected of having a disability and in need of special education even though they are advancing from grade to grade.

Identification of children with disabilities and programming for such children will be implemented after a determination of eligibility. The St. Louis Public School District assures that it will provide a free, appropriate public education (FAPE) to all eligible children with disabilities between the ages of 3 and 21 under its jurisdiction either locally or through contractual arrangements in accordance with RSMo [162.675(2)(3)] and the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).

EARLY INTERVENTION

The St. Louis Public School District assures that it will provide information and referral services necessary to assist the State in the implementation of the Part C early intervention system (First Steps) for infants and toddlers suspected of having a disability.

CONFIDENTIALITY

The St. Louis Public School District assures that personally identifiable information collected, used, or maintained by the agency for the purposes of identification, evaluation, placement or provision of FAPE of children with disabilities may be inspected and/or reviewed by their parents. Parents may request amendment to the educational record if the parent believes the record is inaccurate, misleading, or violates the privacy or other rights of their child. Parents may register a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education or the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) if they feel the agency is in violation of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA).

The St. Louis Public School District has adopted the Missouri Local Compliance Plan for the implementation of State Regulations for the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). This plan contains the agency’s policies and procedures regarding storage, disclosure to third parties, retention and destruction of personally identifiable information and the agency’s assurances that services are provided in compliance with the General Education Provision Act (GEPA). PETTUS FOUNDATION

“We enthusiastically support this important program that recognizes the outstanding achievements of St. Louis Public School teachers and principals and provides us with the opportunity to share their successful philosophies and best practices which help so many students succeed.”

— CHRIS LEE, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, ST. LOUIS PUBLIC SCHOOLS FOUNDATION

Pettus Foundation Awards For Excellence

In December 2007, the Pettus Foundation pledged a generous three-year $330,000 grant to the St. Louis Public Schools Foundation to support a program that honors and recognizes outstanding St. Louis Public School (SLPS) principals and teachers for their accomplishments in schools and classrooms. The Awards of Excellence program recognizes teachers who demonstrate excellence in teaching by inspiring all students to achieve and who have the respect and admiration of their students, parents and colleagues. They must also have an active role in creating a positive culture in their school. Outstanding SLPS principals who inspire staff and students to achieve and who have the respect and admiration of their teachers, staff, students, parents and colleagues are also recognized. The goal of the program is to honor and promote the work and educational strategies that are succeeding and inspire others to replicate that success. Every teacher and principal in the district is eligible to be nominated for the award.

A panel of 36 judges consisting of retired St. Louis Public School principals and teachers conducted a thorough selection process by reviewing the nomination packets and selecting teachers and principals whom the judges observed firsthand in their respective schools. The judges selected finalists for interviews and used a point system to determine the winners.

One teacher, judged as the most outstanding, is selected from each SLPS elementary, middle, and high school and awarded a $1,000 cash prize. Eight principals judged as the most outstanding are also awarded $1,000 each. In addition to the cash prize, the winning teachers and principals receive a plaque to be prominently displayed in their school and a desktop award for their office or classroom. Each non-winning semifinalist is presented with a Certificate of Excellence.

For the 2011–2012 school year, seven principals and 76 teachers received the Awards of Excellence and the $1,000 cash prize.

Winning principals were honored with their awards in the presence of their peers at the SLPS year-end principals’ meeting in May. Teacher awards were presented during special recognition programs and award ceremonies at their schools. The Pettus Awards of Excellence for 2011–2012 will be announced publicly in August.

“In the past five years, nearly 400 St. Louis Public Schools teachers and principals have been honored with the Pettus Awards of Excellence. Many of these outstanding educators are still with the District, working hard every day to help our students succeed. We are grateful that the Pettus Awards program provides us with an opportunity to recognize their important contributions,” said Chris Lee, Executive Director of the St. Louis Public Schools Foundation.

“Commitment can mean many different things. It can be an amount of time, a sacrifice of yourself for others, or even improving one’s own abilities. I believe that an effective administrator is one that shows true commitment to its staff, students and district. True commitment attracts and inspires people. My commitment is seen through my vision for our school, the plans to carry out the vision, and the time I am willing to spend to see the vision through. I am committed to helping others set and achieve their goals, improving my own abilities and providing an instructional program conducive to personal and academic success of our students.”

Since the beginning of dawn, educators have been saying, “All children can learn.” In my quest for excellence, this will become a reality.

One of the many acquired traits from having served as a law enforcer has been the ability to focus on the goals and missions with follow-through to successful completions. Being a product of the St. Louis Public Schools, it has become my strong belief that all students should be afforded the opportunity of achieving academic success – from whence forth comes the fulfillment of their ultimate goals beyond secondary education.

As an educator, I staunchly support the endeavors of this school system as we forge ahead to make a difference in the lives of our students. The myriad teaching and administrative experiences, along with the ongoing participation in numerous and varied support mechanisms, has allowed me to gain competence; and has given me leverage to accomplish my objectives.

These objectives are accomplished in several ways. From day one, it is imperative that your staff know your expectations. Using ISLIC standards as a guide to achieving student achievement are tantamount to a “how to fix it” manual.

You have to be able to articulate a vision of high standards within the school community. The expected behaviors and goals must be modeled and demonstrated to all stakeholders. The role of leader in communicating the vision is one of high priest. You have to be able to define, strengthen, and articulate enduring values, beliefs and cultural strands that give your school its identity. The climate of the school should promote constant improvement.

Every teacher will say that they care for and nurture mathematics learning within their classroom. The question becomes, what makes my classroom stand out amongst those. I would have to say that it is my dedication to making mathematics real for them.

For the past several years, my students have brushed up on their math skills and explored algebra skills by my integration of fantasy football into the curriculum.

Everything from adding and subtracting fractions to the distributive property, to rounding are tied into the fantasy football lessons. Every student starts to see how mathematics is tied to everything we do.

My expectations for their achievement are matched but not exceeded by my expectations for their character. Each student has a goal for the class as well as a goal for themselves. Character plays a major role in my classroom management which then sets the stage for learning to take place. I like to think of myself as teaching the “whole” student and not just the part that will allow them to do well on a test. There are so many things that a kid will learn in my class that no test will ever be able to measure. They learn things like kindness, compassion and humility which helps them to be able to ask questions when they’re stuck or express themselves when they cannot always find the right words.

Former students will come up to me and tell me that they are learning things that I’ve already taught them. They will come to me and tell me that they are in advanced courses because they had been in my class. I do know that because of me, this world is a little better place to live because of the students I’ve helped mold in and outside of the classroom.

Matthew D. Hoertel

Busch Middle School of Character and Athletics

Teaching allows me to turn information into a story in which the children can relate. This is an advantage because storytelling makes learning more fun. This method allows the students to interact not only when the story is over, but also while it is being told. Students tend to become very bored when information is droned out, and they are expected to absorb it while losing interest. Using story interaction allows me to help students better understand any information given, and allows students the ability to create inferences with a higher level of accuracy.

Students today face many more issues than in the past. They need to feel as if their ideas matter and they want to know that someone is listening and cares. Interaction in the classroom awakens the mind and the students feel a sense of belonging. As teachers, we feel a sense of accomplishment when our students make the connection between past and present events. I feel accomplishment when I can help students look at all sides of an issue before they make decisions.

My goal as a teacher is for students to challenge the many interpretations of the past and to support their findings with documented proof. No matter where you are in society, you need to be able to present your ideas clearly and persuasively. I stress effective writing by assigning periodic writing assignments and giving positive feedback to all students. Improvement in writing skills is expected and necessary for continued growth. I also stress creativity by assigning oral assignments with hands-on techniques. This includes assignments ranging from signing the Preamble of the Constitution to creating advertisements for a mock business. All students should have the opportunity to learn and be excited about learning.

Julie Wuch

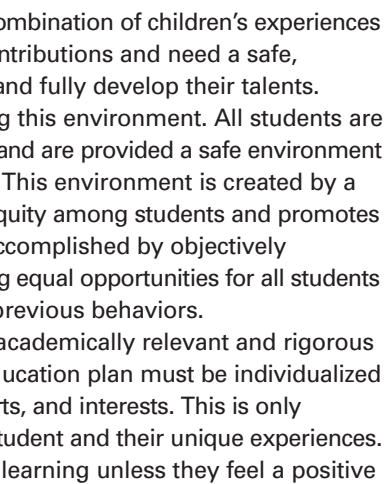

Principal, Wilkinson Early Childhood Center

An administrator sets the tone for their school community. It is their leadership qualities, motivation level and overall personality that influence the staff, students and parents surrounding them. A building seems to take on a personality of its own based on the administrator. I believe the best possible environment to work and learn in, is one that is motivational, professional and respectful. It is my goal to build this culture within my school. As both an administrator and teacher I have always been energetic and motivational. I use these strengths to positively affect the culture in my school. I believe in being visible on a daily basis, not just when students arrive and depart, but also in and out of the classrooms. It’s common to find me in a classroom, visiting with students and gaining insight into their daily routine and learning. Leaders lead by example and by showing enthusiasm for my job, I believe it will encourage others to do the same.

Effective administrators need to be excellent communicators. They must take information and express it in a way that is confident and understandable. Body language, facial expressions and tone are all important parts of communication and used the correct way, can motivate others to listen and communicate effectively as well.

6. Laugh and have fun. There is nothing wrong with having fun while you are teaching. The educational process can be fun and the more enjoyable it is for the students, the more they will want to participate.

Much of what we do in our science experiments is made up from inexpensive household items. This deliberate effort is designed to show that wealth and fancy facilities are not needed to learn a concept or to conduct an experiment. Many students have taken what they have learned in the classroom and duplicated the very same activities they have learned at school, home to share with family.

As you can see, we look at the entire community of learners to create a wrap around to meet the needs of all children. We make it happen...no exceptions... no excuses!

It is extremely important to determine a child's learning style to differentiate instruction. This helps to distinguish how a child thinks, solves problems, and remembers information. Most children have a preferred, consistent way of perceiving, organizing, and retaining information. This involves their learning styles. Once this is determined, students can be grouped and strategies can be developed to address their way of learning. Learning occurs when a student is fully engaged in the learning process by making connections and applying knowledge to a variety of experiences.

Children from families whose current income is at or below those shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals. Applications are available at the school office or online at mealapp.slps.org. To apply, fill out a Free and Reduced School Meals Family Application and return it to the school or complete the meal application online. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. A complete application is required as a condition of eligibility. A complete application includes: (1) household income from all sources or Food Stamp/Temporary Assistance case number, (2) names of all household members, and (3) the signature and last four digits of social security number of adult household member signing the application. School officials may verify current income at any time during the school year. Foster children maybe eligible regardless of the income of the household with whom they reside. If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for these benefits.

Under the provisions of the policy, the Accountability Specialist will review the applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the determining official, they may wish to discuss the decision with the hearing official on an informal basis or may make a request either orally or in writing to Althea Albert-Santiago, Food Services Director. Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy. A complete copy of the policy is on file in each school and in the central office where any interested party may review it.

The Healthy Hunger-Free Kids Act (HHFKA), implemented by President Obama in 2010, was created in order to improve child nutrition in response to the rise of childhood obesity and to provide new guidelines for the National School Lunch Program (NSLP). Section 205 of the HHFKA sets forth a federal mandate requiring all participating schools in the NSLP to raise the price of a paid lunch in order to generate enough revenue to cover the costs of implementation of the Healthy Hunger-Free Kids Act 2010. In order, to be in compliance with this law, the Special Administration Board has approved a price increase of $.10 for all paid meals for the upcoming school year, 2012-2013.

The following meal prices are for the school year 2012-2013. Breakfast is free of charge to all students; the new lunch prices are as follows: Elementary $1.10, Middle $1.20 and Secondary $1.35. Reduced meal price is $.40 for lunch.

SLPS FOUNDATION: A Vital Partner in Supporting District Students

The SLPS Foundation works with Superintendent Kelvin Adams and his staff in developing and implementing strategies to secure funding that supports district initiatives. Over the years, the Foundation has raised more than $12 million to help elevate immediate and long-term educational outcomes for district students.

Under the leadership of its Board Chair Valerie Bell, and with a new business plan and energized and committed board of directors and staff, the Foundation looks to further strengthen its partnership with the district. It will collaborate even more closely with SLPS in the months ahead to advocate and raise funds for Dr. Adams' top priorities of improving Early Childhood Education, College and Career Readiness, and Student Health and Wellness. "As student performance continues to advance and the district makes steady progress towards regaining its accreditation, we are excited about the prospect of working together so that the district will be successful in addressing its most critical priorities," Ms. Bell explained. "We will be reaching out to the entire community to help support this important effort," she said.

Asbestos Management Plan Availability

Asbestos containing building materials (ACBM) are present within various schools throughout the District. In accordance with the Federal Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act (AHERA), an accredited inspector and management planner have completed a review of the locations, quantities and friability of the asbestos containing materials and have prepared an assessment and response action plan to reduce exposure to asbestos fibers.

Copies of the asbestos program for all schools, which includes current inspection reports, are located in the Operations office located at 801 N. 11th Street, St. Louis, Missouri.

Please note that one copy is also required to be kept at the school itself.

The plan is available to the public for inspection without cost or restriction within five working days after receiving a written request for inspection.

Hours of availability and a copy of the form, "Request for Inspection of Asbestos Program," will be provided upon request.

Should a request be made for a copy of the report or parts of the report, SLPS may charge up to $0.25 per page to make copies of the plan.

LEAD-BASED PAINT HAZARD REDUCTION PROGRAM

Since 2001, the District has implemented a Lead-Based Paint Hazard Reduction Program to reduce potential hazards associated with lead-based paint within our school buildings. City lead inspectors and numerous third party consulting firms have partnered with the District to provide testing, analysis and assessment of potential lead-based paint hazards inside and outside our schools. In addition, the District has performed various lead abatement and interim control projects over recent years in response to our testing data. Copies of all testing information and abatement records are available upon request. We are also available to discuss current lead abatement and interim control projects being undertaken by the District. If you have further questions please contact the Office of Operations at 345-4669.
